BIBLIOGRAPHY

Baeta, C. E. Theology as Liberation: Four Contemporary Third World Programmes, Accra: Ghana Academy of Arts and Sciences, 1983.

Ofosuhene, H. J. The Kwahu Traditional Concept of the Sacred and the Profane, A dissertation submitted to the department or the study of Religions, University of Ghana, Legon, in partial fulfillment the Master of Philosophy Degree, 1993.

The Akan Group, http://www.beepworld.de/members18/shika-gold/ashanti.htm

The International Catholic online Authority on Women’s Ministry, ‘Women can be Priests’, http://www.Womenpriest.org/tradition/unclean.asp.

Troyforever ‘Was economics the only mitigating factor of the general oppression of women’? http://www.talk-history.com/forum/showthread.php?t=1480

Curriculum Vitae

Akua Frimpong is a lay theologian and a preacher in the Presbyterian Church of Ghana. She holds a Bachelors degree in Agriculture from the Kwame Nkrumah University of Science and Technology, Kumasi.
She holds a Diploma in Theology (equivalent to a BA) from Trinity Theological Seminary, Legon, Ghana, and a MA in Organization Leadership from the Azusa Pacific University, California.
She holds a MA in Theology from the VU University Amsterdam, the Netherlands.
She is currently a lecturer at Wisconsin International University College, Ghana where she teaches Leadership and Management courses. She also facilitates Leadership Seminars in various organizations including the Ghana Armed Forces.
She is a marriage counselor and mentors young women.
Akua is 62 years old, married to John with three children.